

ARMY PLAN IS OUTLINED BY GARRISON

SECRETARY OF WAR EXPLAINS CONTINENTAL SYSTEM PROPOSED BY ADMINISTRATION.

MEANS INCREASED COST

Tells House Military Affairs Committee That Nation's Interests and Existence May Depend on Defense Policy.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, D. C., January 6.—Secretary Garrison laid before the house military affairs committee today his formal argument in behalf of the administration's plan which is designed to give the country a definite military policy. It proposes the creation of mobile federal force of more than a million men in six years' accumulation of huge reserves of ammunition and equipment, and a permanent extension of the coast defenses.

The whole project will involve an increased expense of $500,000,000 and an annual war department budget of more than $200,000,000, as compared with an average of $100,000,000 for the last few years.

Of utmost importance, "The integrity of the nation and its very existence," the secretary said, "depend from a military standpoint on the plan he had prepared, 'may depend upon what is done in the matter at this time.' This great opportunity will be lost unless a wise, sensible and practical policy is a result of consideration and action of this congress."

Referring to far-spread military responsibilities of the nation reaching into insular possessions—China, Alaska and the Panama Canal zone—Mr. Garrison added:

"We have determined and announced that the sovereignty of other republics on this hemisphere shall rest on the stability of our position at all times stand ready to make good our position in this connection."

"There is a disposition on the part of some," he continued, "to assume that policy is a result of expediency. The way to meet an emergency is by adopting emergency measures. The personnel and material needed for military purposes should be immediately mobilized. Every nerve should be strained and every resource drawn upon and nothing overlooked necessary to preserve and defend us regardless of cost and consequence."

Need of $500,000,000.

"There is common agreement among those who have studied the subject intelligently that we should have forces in the continental United States of 500,000 men."

"Our immediate problem, therefore, seems to be, how shall we meet these requirements?"

The adjutant general reaches the conclusion that in order to meet under present conditions to recruit more than 50,000 men per year for the army, it would therefore seem impractical in the last degree to consider that the nation should be able to furnish for a standing army of the size necessary for this solution."

Turning to the national guard, Mr. Garrison said:

"At the present time this force consists of approximately 20,000 men and officers, and it would therefore be necessary, if it is to be expanded to 100,000, to add 27,000 men and officers."

"I, therefore, propose a large addition to the federal aid extended to the national guard, so that the system may be operated by the nation's capacity and be available for the federal purposes specified in its most effective condition."

The secretary then outlined the continental plan and said: "I propose to raise 400,000 men in annual increments of 120,000, each from districts, approximately the four hundred congressional districts, each to supply 1,200 men annually. The men would be trained for three years with the colors, and three years on furlough, and be armed, equipped and officered. Their training would be done by the officers of the regular army, and during the time of their service on the same basis as the regular army."

Number of Men Required.

Turning to the question of the size of the regular army necessary to train the continentals and carry on the various military activities of the war department in normal times, Mr. Garrison said it had been demonstrated to him that a mobile force of 50,000 and 20,000 coast artillery troops would be sufficient to handle the present emergency, and that the increase of nearly 40,000 over the present army, he said, would be comparatively inexpensive, and could be recruited for these reasons: he recommended the addition of ten regiments of infantry, four regiments of field artillery, fifty-two companies of coast artillery, fifteen companies of engineering, and four aviation squadrons to the present force, bringing the "enlisted strength in two years" up to 134,707, and the number of officers to 7,058.

Provides Mobile Army.

"The officers and men of the new organization are to be recruited on the basis of the war department's plan is to be tried out," he added, "in the plan of the war college division of the general staff, an army of about 100,000 to be distributed that in continental United States there would be 120,000 mobile army troops. In the war department's plan these divisions are at peace strength so that they are capable of expansion. The college division is to be increased to 100,000 men with six years in service, and eventually at the end of eight years makes up a line of 500,000 of the regular army, of whom 121,000 would be with the colors, and 379,000 in reserve."

Citizenry Accustomed to Arms, Object Sought By Chamberlain

Washington, Jan. 6.—"I favor such a preparedness as will enable our country to defend itself in time of need."

This is not a slogan speaking, it is a man who will have much to say with out new army policy in the United States senate: Senator George E. Chamberlain, democrat from Oregon, chairman of the senate committee on military affairs, who is the author of a universal military training bill that may be the greatest obstacle to the adoption by congress of President Wilson's plan for a continental army.

So far as the land forces are concerned, the preparedness situation is rapidly crystallizing into a high over the administration's continental army plan—a contest of the president against the senate, the continental army against the citizen army proposed by Chamberlain.

His highest military authority, the college disapproves of the continental army plan. The war college heads approve the Chamberlain plan for citizen training.

Won't Fight President.

Since both plans cannot be adopted, it might be assumed that Chamberlain will fight the president. When asked about this the senator replied:

RIVER BOAT SINKS; FEAR THAT SEVERAL PERSONS DROWNED

Captain and Sixty-two Survivors of Ohio River Accident Unable to Say How Many Are Missing.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Parkersburg, W. Va., Jan. 6.—Captain Brady M. Berry and sixty-two of the passengers and crew of the steamer Kanawha, which sank in the Ohio river at dawn No. 19 last night, arrived here early today on a special train sent out by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad to pick up the survivors scattered along four miles of river front of the West Virginia side. Captain Berry said that he saw no one in the water, and did not know any had been lost, he felt there had been fatalities and was waiting for daylight to return to the scene of disaster, when a thorough search would be made of the West Virginia and Ohio shores of the river.

ABANDON DISABLED SHIP THESSALONIKI

Crew Quits Greek Liner in Sinking Condition Three Hundred Miles Off Sandy Hook.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Jan. 6.—Passengers and crew of the Greek steamer The Saloniki, are on their way to this port today, having abandoned the disabled liner and left her, it is believed, in a sinking condition, more than three hundred miles southeast of Sandy Hook. The three hundred passengers were on board the Greek steamer, which was bound for Genoa and Gibraltar to New York.

The disabled Greek steamer The Saloniki, which was abandoned at sea by 300 passengers and 120 officers and crew, is still afloat and a menace to navigation, according to radio messages received today by the Anchor line from the steamer Perugia. The message said the Perugia has rescued the crew and all of the mail from the The Saloniki and expected to arrive in port tomorrow night. The passengers and remainder of the crew are aboard the Greek steamer Patricia, and according to previous radio messages are expected here late tonight or early tomorrow.

The message from the Perugia said: "Rescued crew of The Saloniki, 90 men and mail, latitude 37-30 north, longitude 72-30 west. The Saloniki captain reported seacock open, but ship still afloat. Unless ship sinks is great menace to navigation. Warn all vessels. Expect to arrive in New York Friday night, weather permitting."

Fear Mining Camp Will Suffer for Want of Provisions as Result of Storms.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Grand Junction, Colorado, Jan. 6.—Efforts to restore communication with Gateway, a mining camp in southwestern Mesa county, which has been isolated for nearly a week, were hampered by a four inch fall of snow last night which drifted badly in a forty mile gale. Food supplies it is feared here, are isolated in the town and at Gateway, near where the planned today to resume efforts to break a trail into Gateway. In places on the trail heavy snow has drifted over the tops of pine trees, according to forest rangers.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Jan. 6.—Gunnery of the royal Italian navy were in charge of the two guns of the Italian liner Giuseppe Verdi, which arrived here today from Venice, Naples and Palermo, according to Captain Luigi Zannoni.

After the vessel left Palermo the captain said daily practice was held with the guns, barrels being thrown overboard as targets.

The guns were placed by order of the Italian navy authorities, but the captain declared he was instructed to use them for defense purposes only.

The two gunners became extremely proficient in the practice of shooting at the barrels, passengers said. The guns were mounted in the after-houses of the vessel, one on either side, and were in such position as to command all positions on the ship. The captain described the guns as being capable of firing shells weighing 55 kilos four and a half miles.

Facts Reported.

When the Giuseppe Verdi docked here P. A. Dowsey, a member of the port neutrality squad, inspected the guns and reported his information to Dudley Field Malone, collector of the port. The guns are still on the ship and no action will be taken by local officials, charged P. A. Dowsey. Investigation has been made to Washington.

To Investigate.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The state department probably will take up with the Italian government the question of guns mounted on the liner Giuseppe Verdi with a view to having the pieces dismantled before the ship leaves American waters.

BUSY DRAWING JURY TO TRY MURDER CASE

State's Witness Ready to Testify in Trial of Fred T. Price at Minneapolis.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Minneapolis, Jan. 6.—Examination of prospective jurors continued in the trial of Frederick T. Price, local business man and alleged wife murderer, was resumed in district court here today. A special venire has been drawn and it was expected that the three jurors yet to qualify would be agreed upon and the state case outlined by Prosecutor George Armstrong, before adjournment tonight.

A number of physicians who examined the body of Mrs. Price after it was taken from the foot of a cliff over which his wife fell, the first witnesses for the case. Their testimony will be followed by that of Charles E. Nicholson of Washington, D. C., who after his arrest for a joint murder in Detroit, charged Price killed his wife for her money.

Premier Asquith, the man who was uncrowned king of ante-bellum Britain and who transformed parliament from a bicameral to a virtually unicameral body in order to facilitate his schemes of reform, is believed to be almost at the end of his career. England demands a new leader and the two men most frequently mentioned as his successor are David Lloyd-George and Sir Edward Carson, the ablest Radical and the strongest Conservative. Both these men favor conscription for unmarried slacks, while up to the present Asquith has been opposed to this plan.

MT. VERNON VISITED BY LATIN AMERICANS

Delegates to Pan-American Congress See Home and Tomb of Washington—Interest in Wilson's Address Tonight.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Jan. 6.—This was Pan-American day at Mt. Vernon. Practically every delegate to the Pan-American Scientific Congress accepted the invitation to visit the home and tomb of Washington.

The attendance at different sectional meetings of the congress in the forenoon was almost up to the average, but the greatest interest shown was in the excursion to Mount Vernon. The chief point of interest for all today, however, was the address of President Wilson on the program for tonight. The demands for seats have been so great that instead of in the Pan-American building the president will speak in a larger hall of the D. A. R. building.

Dr. Jose Matos, professor of international law in the faculty of law and natural practice of Guatemala, urged that the section on international law be made a broader field for teaching. He advocated a partial modification of the international law and warned against the dangerous doctrine that extreme necessity may determine the just or unjust character of an act and may originate the law. He said rudiments of international law should be taught in connection with civic studies in the elementary and secondary schools and also in military academies and army quarters and labor circles, supplementing this with a study of the various conventions which regulate the laws and usages of warfare.

Representative Stevens of California suggested that congress might provide a commission to study the desirability of finding another location for a navy yard in San Francisco Bay.

BRIEFS ARE ORDERED IN LEVINSON CO. SUIT

Case Against P. L. Myers To Go Into Hands of Judge George Grimm for Decision.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Testimony in the damage suit of the Levinson company against Peter L. Myers this afternoon in district court before Judge George Grimm, was rested and attorneys of either party ordered to submit briefs. Court proceedings today in the case were short and with the filing of briefs and a decision by Judge Grimm, it is expected that the matter will be settled. The Levinson company seeks damages from Mr. Myers for damages alleged to have been caused to the stock of the store of the former during building operations and remodeling of the rooms or quarters for club rooms for the Janesville Knights of Columbus council.

Several divorce matters were scheduled for consideration during the afternoon. Judge Grimm granted the first to come before him, that of Frances M. Dow versus Norman J. Dow, Beloit parties.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Jan. 6.—President Wilson is being urged to appoint former President William Howard Taft to a place on the supreme court bench made vacant by the recent death of Justice Lamar. Mr. Taft has been endorsed in many messages received at the White House.

Senator Newlands of Nevada, who today called on the president, said he thought if the president desired to appoint a Republican, Mr. Taft should be named, and if a Democrat, Secretary Lane should be appointed.

President Wilson told callers today that before appointing a successor to Justice Lamar, he would thoroughly canvass the situation and hear arguments of which candidates to present. He said he wanted to get the best man in the country for the place.

Senators Simmons and Overman of North Carolina also called to tell the president of the qualification of Justice W. R. Allen of the North Carolina supreme court to United States supreme court bench.

A Word to Dealers

"To procure the kind of merchandise people want—the storekeeper must know what goods will be for sale."

Such is an axiom of one of our great merchants, who practices what he preaches.

One thing that the storekeeper does know is that there will be an initial demand for goods which the manufacturer advertises in the newspapers.

He knows that people will want to see these goods—and that if they have merit they will find favor more quickly than unadvertised wares.

The dealer not only stocks with them, but he pushes them at the time the newspaper advertising is running.

POSTOFFICE REPORT SHOWS BIG INCREASE OVER THAT OF 1914

FIGURES COMPILED BY POSTMASTER J. J. CUNNINGHAM AND STAFF FOR BUSINESS OF PAST YEAR.

SHOWS CITY PROSPERS

Increase Totals Nearly Five Thousand Dollars in Excess of Total for Year of 1914.

Using Postmaster J. J. Cunningham's annual report of the local federal bureau's business for the past year, 1915, evidences demonstrate that Janesville and surrounding territory has experienced an increasing wave of prosperity over the previous year, 1914. According to the figures tabulated the business for 1915 shows a gain of four thousand seven hundred and two dollars and eighty-six cents in excess of 1914.

Following are the figures for the two years:

Total receipts for year, 1915, $68,895.36

Total receipts for year, 1914, $64,192.50

Gain for year, $4,702.86

The receipts were as follows:

Stamp sale, envelopes, etc., $65,973.74

Excess on retail envelope sales, 17.03

Second class matter, 1,329.45

Third class matter mailed without stamps, 1,888.12

Waste paper, 20.87

Box rentals, 504.85

Total local receipts, $68,895.36

DISBURSEMENTS

Salary of Postmaster and Clerks, $10,655.40

Salary of Carriers (City Delivery), 14,391.19

Special delivery fees, 452.28

Money sent to P. O. Department in excess of all expenses, 37,599.77

Total disbursements, $63,895.32

Comparing the total amount sent to Washington during the past year with that of 1914, the 1915 records show that the amount of $4,922.54 was sent last year in excess of 1914.

Money Order Department.

Domestic money orders issued show a gain of $2,189 in number and $10,911.48 from a financial viewpoint over 1914. Against this in the number paid there was a loss of 1,524 which amounted to $3,568.91. Janesville postoffice patrons are evidently giving more than they receive.

In the foreign money order report there is a loss in both the number issued and in the number paid. The loss in number issued is eighty-nine orders, totaling $3,094.58. The loss of paid orders is fourteen, totaling $407.32.

The dropping off in the foreign business is due to the war. In 1914 the same trouble was experienced, having its first real effect about October 1st. It has continued up to date and through 1915 and is expected to show a continued shortage as long as Europe is torn with internal strife and as additional belligerents line up either with the central powers or the Triple Entente.

Following are the figures for the past year:

Money Order Statement for 1915.

1915, $377.70

1914, $377.70

Loss, $407.32

The report makes note of a decrease of $120.09 in the expenses of postmaster and clerks over the previous year. Expenses for carriers for city delivery matter fell $152.21 below the figures for 1914.

Thus, against a decrease in operating expenses there is a net gain in the postoffice business for the year. A parcel post auto delivery car giving better service was installed, but this additional expense in no way reduces the better showing of the year.

A gain of 1,879 parcel post packages for the month of December of last year is listed over 1914.

PATENT HEATERS EXPLODE AND ANOTHER SERIOUS FIRE AVERTED ELAST NIGHT

Prompt action on the part of a Schlitz beer agency employee early last evening perhaps averted another fire loss in the building on the Milwaukee road tracks at the foot of West Wall street. Smoking engine the employee began investigating to discover its source. He opened the heavy vault-like door of the beer storage room and discovered that the two kerosene heaters kept lighted to prevent the beer from freezing, had exploded. Hastily grabbing one in each hand he threw them out of doors and returning covered the burning oil with sawdust, extinguishing the flames. The heaters had not gained much headway and after a few moments of strenuous work was entirely quenched.

Shanker, a man with a patent heater just a year ago caused a blaze at the same agency and a loss of several hundred dollars.

FREE DENTAL CLINIC'S RECORD FOR DECEMBER

Despite the fact that December was the holiday month there was a large amount of work done at the dental clinic, the report for which has just been completed. It shows the following cases attended to: 33 silver alloy fillings, 23 cement fillings, three teeth treatments completed and roots filled, 16 extractions, five sets of teeth cleaned.

SEVERE FOOT INJURIES TO RAILWAY SWITCHMAN AT YARDS LAST NIGHT

Otto Tripp, of 939 North Chatham street, a Milwaukee road switchman, suffered excruciating injuries to his left foot last night at 6:20 o'clock as he was mounting his engine in the roundhouse yard, preparatory to beginning the night's work. Tripp's foot was caught between the front running board and the ground and as the engine moved forward it was twisted and crushed. He was taken to Mercy hospital and examination by railway surgeons showed that although no bones were broken the ligaments were badly torn and twisted. Mr. Tripp's injury will necessitate care for several weeks before he will be able to resume his rail duties.

RELIABLE REMEDY RESTORES KIDNEYS.

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It is a physician's prescription.

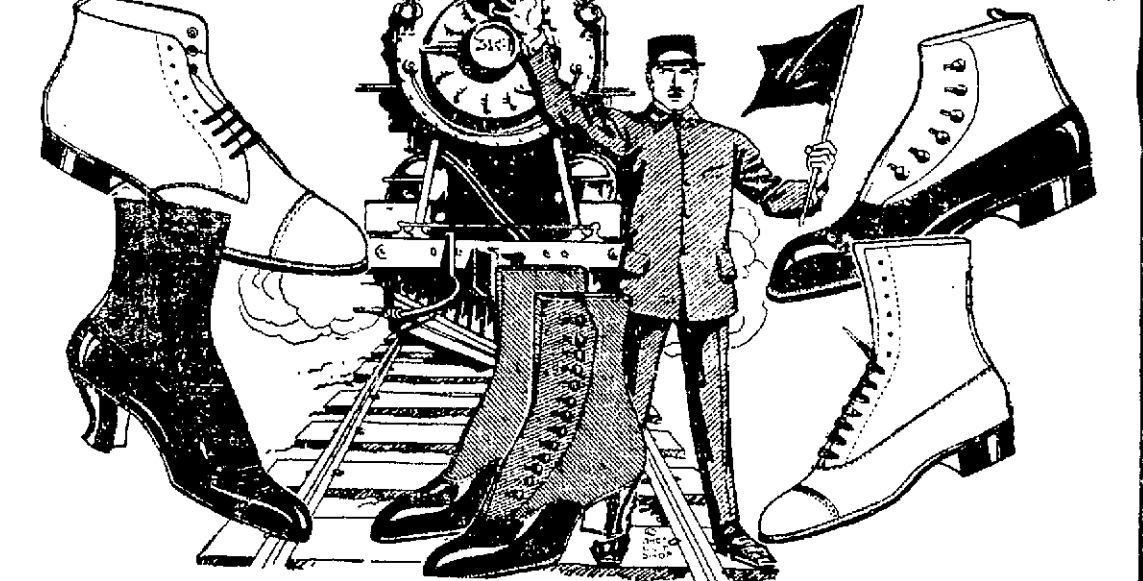

Swamp-Root is a strengthening medicine. Dr. Kilmer used it for years in his private practice. It helps the kidneys, liver and bladder do the work nature intended they should do. Swamp-Root has stood the test of years. It is sold by all druggists on its merit and it will help you. No other remedy can successfully take its place.

Be sure to get Swamp-Root and start treatment at once. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention the Janesville Daily Gazette.

Drug Proof?

If there ever was a human being who was not in some way susceptible to drugs he's never been heard of. Yet in spite of the warnings of reputable physicians many persons with whom coffee disagrees continue its use and take into their systems the drug, caffeine.

The 2 1/2 grains of this drug, in the average cup of coffee, taken regularly is often the cause of headaches, nervousness, biliousness, heart flutter and many other ailments.

The sure, easy way out of coffee troubles is to quit the coffee and use

THOUGHTS ON TAXES.
It is not surprising to hear from Washington that the taxation proposals in President Wilson's message to congress are not regarded with favor even by his own party. They proposed to impose an additional burden upon industry, at a time when it needs encouragement. If there is one tax which is radically and indefensibly bad it is a tax upon a process of trade, because it tends to destroy or cripple the thing taxed," says the Wall Street Journal.

"To the most elementary economist, this is self-evident, and yet the present administration and the democratic congress, the most senselessly extravagant in our history, seem to have made absolutely no scientific study of the question of taxation. The only theory, if there be a theory, is that the best tax is the one easiest to collect, imposed upon a limited number of persons who cannot show their resentment with their votes."

"There is no fairer tax than that on incomes if it be fairly imposed. But a tax that falls upon less than four of a hundred thousand individuals, out of a hundred million, is not fair. It is not a burden, nor does it become so when it is claimed that they have the means to pay. An income tax, to be just, should fall upon all incomes alike. It then becomes an instrument of administrative economy because every taxpayer feels the direct influence of legislative wastefulness."

"This is why the democratic party, printing and printing for revenue only, is driving the country back to high protection as fast as it can burn the money. Taxes collected on imports, whatever their economic objections may be, are at least spread over the whole population of the country. This is a distribution of the burden which the democratic income tax completely lacks. It is certainly a better system than inheritance taxes, because the latter are private capital (which the country's capital), while the former comes out of earnings and therefore does not reduce the country's productive power."

"It was pointed out in these columns once that anyone left an estate of $10,000,000 in Oklahoma by a non-relative, while resident in New York, would, through the folly of the inheritance tax of these two states, be $1,250,000 worse off than he was before the fortune came to him. In like manner the inheritance tax of New York could easily wipe out an entire estate in four successions."

"It must be remembered that this tax upon capital is used for the country's current expenses. If it were used to pay off the national debt, something might be said for it. But the democratic party, as always, learning nothing from experience, is eating up the seed corn."

FORMALITY IN DRESS.
It is an interesting question for debate, whether social customs and respects clothes are growing more formal and conventional or not. As respects the women in the circles called society, the selection of clothes seems more than ever governed by fixed rules of style and etiquette. Of course there are many millions of less conspicuous working women, who dress for comfort and common sense. But as soon as people acquire some money and leisure, the tendency seems strong to pay down a great deal of good money for dressmakers capable of producing style and to follow the most exotic and impractical models.

It is therefore rather pleasant to note the very large number of graduating classes of girls who are nowadays parading to wear simple and inexpensive gowns for the commencement festivities. It is the only suitable arrangement for the schools of a democratic country. Men are certainly much less conventional and formal than women. Of course there is a period in the life of the youth, when he delights himself in merely wearing, in purple and fine linen. In many of our country towns, the young bloods feel they must now have a "dress suit," and perhaps also a tuxedo outfit. Among mature men, the tendency is certainly strong toward comfortable clothes rather than arbitrary styles. Formerly many business men felt a "plug hat" necessary. Now you are more likely to see one on the young blood clerk than the bank president, or the man than the doctor or circus agent rather than the successful manufacturer. Even the ceremonial derby is less in favor than comfortable soft hats, which can be dropped on the floor without catastrophe, and do not blow off the head in every winter wind. To most men clothes are but a mere incident of life. Anything that will look neat and feel comfortable in a busy life is the ideal. Conventional forms are sure to be swept away, as remnants of the decorative and archaic medieval life when men wore powdered wigs and plush knee breeches.

BOOK AGENTS.
One of the common experiences of daily life is the call of the book agent. Many of these voluble visitors do not seem open to any kind of advice. Others are young people working for an education, or persons having some grounds for friendly treatment. Perhaps these would like to know why a type book agents are more or less in disfavor.

There are many of them who, if you don't take time to look over their wares, will indicate that you are discourteous, ignorant, and obstinate. This creates a dislike for the whole tribe of house-to-house solicitors. It will be remarked that a solicitor must be aggressive or he would never win attention. Still there are few people who can be bluffed, bullied, or forced into buying things.

The caustic reception so often given to canvassers is perhaps due to the feeling that they do not perform a useful service. In the case of books, you may not be able to get just the same thing in a store. But usually you can get something quite as good for less money, the agent's commission being saved.

There are some kinds of sales work that can perhaps be done in no other way. Some people have a natural genius for canvassing, and are energetic, resourceful, and never arouse antagonism. In such cases their abilities would be better rewarded in some other field of labor. As a whole, newspaper advertising is far cheaper and much more effective.

Young people who want to earn money for an education would usually do better to offer the public some service that it really wants. If they will work on farms or wait on tables, or perform some task for which there is a demand, they will find their position pleasanter and usually the rewards greater.

If they are set on canvassing, let them remember that politeness is the foundation of success in any calling. If a few minutes' courteous and pointed talk does not interest a person in a book or other article, they would better quit and try someone else.

STREET LIGHTING.
With the taking down of the various electric and telephone poles throughout the city, the establishment of the proposed street lighting for the business district is about ready for installation. The matter has been given most careful thought and attention by the city commission and the various methods of obtaining the best of the street lighting have been gone into and their merits and demerits weighed carefully. It has not been definitely decided as yet, but it is probable that what is known as the "stagger system" will be installed. This plan gives the greater radius of lights and more uniform lights through a greater space than any other.

Cities that have made a careful study of the best and most modern lighting systems have decided upon this plan and in selecting it Mayor Fathers and the commissioners are acting upon tried precedent and not any experiment. By the "stagger" light is meant that one light will not be directly opposite the other, but placed at such an angle so that its reflection will meet those of other lamps similarly located on the two sides of a street and there will be no dark spots as is sometimes the case if the lights are placed opposite each other. The single light is to be used, it having been proven the most satisfactory, and the poles will be some twenty odd feet high, with the reflection all downwards and not thrown directly out leaving shadows. Taking it all in all it is one of the best studies of the kind that have been made in a long time and which will be welcomed by citizens generally. Meanwhile the division of the lights among the wards will continue until there will be no dark corners anywhere and the cost will not be so materially greater than any taxpayer will feel it.

Some people's ideas of getting trade is to open up the front door and graciously allow the public to see their grand stock, expecting that people will tumble over each other to get in without further solicitation. The people who can't pay for their Christmas gifts on account of the January 1 bills soon to come are about the same ones who can't pay their January 1 bills, owing to their recent expense for Christmas.

It is claimed that German scientists are going to make food palatable for their people to eat. Perhaps they have already got in training for the same by eating some of our American breakfast foods.

The fact that a man covers up his automobile motor with a blanket in cold weather, because it does better if kept warm, does not mean that he remembered to blanket his horse in days of yore.

That Christmas promotes the thankful spirit is proved by the sigh of relief which the average man finishes up his letters of acknowledgment of gifts.

This year is leap year, but it makes no difference for lovely women long ago learned to accomplish the same results any old year by indirection.

Senator Works wants 200,000 soldiers stationed on farms, which will not accommodate the girls who want them as partners for dances.

Mrs. Galt promised to "obey," but perhaps Mr. Wilson will diplomatically inquire in advance what commands will meet with her approval.

Perhaps one reason why New Year's resolutions are so popular is that experience has shown that they can be broken quite easily.

So far none of the European powers has stopped fighting to wait until Henry Ford gets there.

PREMATURE PEACE IS SUBJECT DISCUSSED

Dr. David Beaton Writes Most Interesting on This Important Subject for Chicago Paper.
In a recent issue of the Chicago Post, Dr. David Beaton, former pastor of the First Congregational church of Chicago, has written an interesting article on the question of "Premature Peace" as follows:

Chicago, Dec. 29.—To the Editor of the Post, Sir:—The deepest interest at this moment is the possibility of a speedy peace; and no more serious charge can be made against either of the belligerent groups than that of responsibility for the continuance of the war.

The Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg directly charges the entente allies with this responsibility; but, manifestly, no fair opinion can be formed on the subject until the war has ended. The public, however, needs a fair and full summary of the facts up to date to judge intelligently the whole situation.

In the west, Belgium is conquered, prostrate and practically a German province. Part of France, also, is invaded and held by the enemy. In this main zone of the war, the opposing forces are at a deadlock and the situation is a half of preparation for men and munitions and themselves powerless to dislodge Germany from her intrenchments.

On the northeast, Russia has been driven back to its first advances. Poland is wrested from her grasp, and although the Teutonic wave has been stayed at the gates of Riga, the armistice has been denied to the allies, it is simply impossible for them to stop at this stage.

A peace just now would be a premature peace; and perhaps the central powers rather than the allies are in a position which casts upon them the greater responsibility for the continuance of the war.

SHANGHAI HAS GAINED FOREIGN POPULATION DURING THE LAST YEAR
Shanghai, Jan. 6.—Shanghai now has a foreign population of 18,515, a gain of 4,833 over the last census, which was taken in 1910. The official census which the city has just completed shows that the increase in the foreign population since 1910 has been 14,798.

Japanese outnumber any other nationality in Shanghai. There are now 7,109 of that race in this city. The British come second with 2,022. The Portuguese population numbers 1,323. Americans rank fourth with 1,307. Germans have 1,155. Indians rank sixth with a total of 594. Frenchmen, 151. Spaniards, 145. Danes, 123. Austro-Hungarians, 114. Italians and 103 Turks.

The remainder of the foreign population is made up of Norwegians, Swiss, Swedes, Dutchmen, Persians, Koreans, Belgians, Rumanians, Egyptians, Armenians, Brazilians, Montenegrins and Bulgarians. None of these figures has as many as 100 citizens in Shanghai.

These figures do not include the French concession, and a very considerable foreign population living in the outside, reads under the control of the French council.

CABBAGE RAISERS ADVISED TO PREVENT NEW DISEASE THAT IS CALLED "YELLOW"
Madison, Jan. 6.—Cabbage raisers are advised on the best methods of controlling the disease known as "yellow," caused by a fungus which invades the seed beds or soon after transplanting, in a bulletin issued today by the Wisconsin college of agricultural experiment station.

The disease has been working havoc with growers of the variety known as "Holland" or "Danish Ball" head for the last ten years. The disease is at its worst during a period of hot, dry weather. If it is once introduced into the soil, it persists indefinitely so that ordinary crop rotation is of little avail in combating it.

The bulletin states that steam sterilization of soil was the only successful means known to combat the disease, but this was impossible in fields. It suggests that one of the best methods of control seems to be in the possibility of growing disease resistant varieties or strains. By repeated selection, the experiment college has succeeded in producing these strains.

The mere enumeration of these triumphs of the allies is sufficient to give courage to every neutral and unprejudiced reader; but what must the effect be on the minds of the people who have won them and whose policy showed they relied upon them in the final decision of the war?

For example, as concerns Britain, her export trade in foodstuffs, raw materials for manufactures and general business upon which her ability to continue the war depends are practically unimpaired, and this, in spite of the submarine policy of the Germans notoriously initiated to deal Britain a fatal blow at this vital spot.

Besides all this, the neutral commerce of the world is accessible to the allies, and the practically uninterrupted transportation of troops, munitions and war equipment of all sorts is at their command, and entirely cut off from their adversaries. Behind and beneath all these ostensible advantages of the supremacy of the sea are the financial operations of the allies.

Britain is, as yet, meeting only the first strain both in men and money, and no phase of the war is more significant than the marvelous resource and efficiency with which the war is being financed for the allies by Great Britain.

Most likely this aspect of the war has not attracted the attention of the general reader, and the force which is its importance merits it. It is not as spectacular as the mighty drives of invading hosts, nor the sieges and fierce trench fighting.

This is not the sensational news value in it that is in the destruction of cities, the desolation of a whole country in the war zone.

We are here forced back upon an elementary principle of all warfare, namely, that the aggressive belligerent must attain his main objective or else he suffers a real defeat, however many minor successes fall in his way.

In estimating the results of the operations which the central powers have succeeded, we are impressed by the circumstance that they are not in any instance vital objectives, the taking of which could settle the war; but incidental conquests, brilliant, subsidiary operations undertaken rather for political than strict military ends.

ACKLEY WILL AGAIN ASPIRE TO SENATE

State Senator From Chippewa Falls Denies Report He Has Quit Politics.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Madison, Wis., Jan. 6.—That he will probably be a candidate for the senate in the Eau Claire district this year is the inference in a letter published in answer to his critics by Senator E. F. Ackley of Chippewa Falls here today. Senator Ackley was answering an editorial attack on him.

"Among other things it was stated that the 'comedy known as Senator Ackley had retired to save being re-elected by the people of his district,' writes Senator Ackley. 'I will state that I have not retired and have no intention of doing so; that the only statement that I have made is that I have no desire to go to congress and that I shall constantly oppose the doctrines of socialism.'"

VETERAN AT GREEN BAY FOUND FROZEN TO DEATH
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Green Bay, Jan. 6.—Winter claimed its first victim here today. Nicholas Weber, an old soldier, fell while returning home last night, was stunned and froze to death. He was seventy years old.

The real protagonists are the German Empire, on the one side, and the British Empire on the other. The reader, according to his knowledge of history and the present situation, in the civil power above the military class.

But whichever theory of life and government individualism or state control, democracy or autocracy, that they follow and above all more in the elemental and energizing force that carries on the war; and the war can never be ended until the arms representing either of these ideas have won a decisive victory.

It is not a question of willingness to stop the war on the part of the allies, it is simply impossible for them to stop at this stage.

A peace just now would be a premature peace; and perhaps the central powers rather than the allies are in a position which casts upon them the greater responsibility for the continuance of the war.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Madison, Wis., Jan. 6.—That he will probably be a candidate for the senate in the Eau Claire district this year is the inference in a letter published in answer to his critics by Senator E. F. Ackley of Chippewa Falls here today. Senator Ackley was answering an editorial attack on him.

"Among other things it was stated that the 'comedy known as Senator Ackley had retired to save being re-elected by the people of his district,' writes Senator Ackley. 'I will state that I have not retired and have no intention of doing so; that the only statement that I have made is that I have no desire to go to congress and that I shall constantly oppose the doctrines of socialism.'"

VETERAN AT GREEN BAY FOUND FROZEN TO DEATH
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Green Bay, Jan. 6.—Winter claimed its first victim here today. Nicholas Weber, an old soldier, fell while returning home last night, was stunned and froze to death. He was seventy years old.

The real protagonists are the German Empire, on the one side, and the British Empire on the other. The reader, according to his knowledge of history and the present situation, in the civil power above the military class.

But whichever theory of life and government individualism or state control, democracy or autocracy, that they follow and above all more in the elemental and energizing force that carries on the war; and the war can never be ended until the arms representing either of these ideas have won a decisive victory.

It is not a question of willingness to stop the war on the part of the allies, it is simply impossible for them to stop at this stage.

A peace just now would be a premature peace; and perhaps the central powers rather than the allies are in a position which casts upon them the greater responsibility for the continuance of the war.

SHANGHAI HAS GAINED FOREIGN POPULATION DURING THE LAST YEAR
Shanghai, Jan. 6.—Shanghai now has a foreign population of 18,515, a gain of 4,833 over the last census, which was taken in 1910. The official census which the city has just completed shows that the increase in the foreign population since 1910 has been 14,798.

Japanese outnumber any other nationality in Shanghai. There are now 7,109 of that race in this city. The British come second with 2,022. The Portuguese population numbers 1,323. Americans rank fourth with 1,307. Germans have 1,155. Indians rank sixth with a total of 594. Frenchmen, 151. Spaniards, 145. Danes, 123. Austro-Hungarians, 114. Italians and 103 Turks.

The remainder of the foreign population is made up of Norwegians, Swiss, Swedes, Dutchmen, Persians, Koreans, Belgians, Rumanians, Egyptians, Armenians, Brazilians, Montenegrins and Bulgarians. None of these figures has as many as 100 citizens in Shanghai.

These figures do not include the French concession, and a very considerable foreign population living in the outside, reads under the control of the French council.

CABBAGE RAISERS ADVISED TO PREVENT NEW DISEASE THAT IS CALLED "YELLOW"
Madison, Jan. 6.—Cabbage raisers are advised on the best methods of controlling the disease known as "yellow," caused by a fungus which invades the seed beds or soon after transplanting, in a bulletin issued today by the Wisconsin college of agricultural experiment station.

The disease has been working havoc with growers of the variety known as "Holland" or "Danish Ball" head for the last ten years. The disease is at its worst during a period of hot, dry weather. If it is once introduced into the soil, it persists indefinitely so that ordinary crop rotation is of little avail in combating it.

The bulletin states that steam sterilization of soil was the only successful means known to combat the disease, but this was impossible in fields. It suggests that one of the best methods of control seems to be in the possibility of growing disease resistant varieties or strains. By repeated selection, the experiment college has succeeded in producing these strains.

The mere enumeration of these triumphs of the allies is sufficient to give courage to every neutral and unprejudiced reader; but what must the effect be on the minds of the people who have won them and whose policy showed they relied upon them in the final decision of the war?

For example, as concerns Britain, her export trade in foodstuffs, raw materials for manufactures and general business upon which her ability to continue the war depends are practically unimpaired, and this, in spite of the submarine policy of the Germans notoriously initiated to deal Britain a fatal blow at this vital spot.

Besides all this, the neutral commerce of the world is accessible to the allies, and the practically uninterrupted transportation of troops, munitions and war equipment of all sorts is at their command, and entirely cut off from their adversaries. Behind and beneath all these ostensible advantages of the supremacy of the sea are the financial operations of the allies.

Britain is, as yet, meeting only the first strain both in men and money, and no phase of the war is more significant than the marvelous resource and efficiency with which the war is being financed for the allies by Great Britain.

Most likely this aspect of the war has not attracted the attention of the general reader, and the force which is its importance merits it. It is not as spectacular as the mighty drives of invading hosts, nor the sieges and fierce trench fighting.

This is not the sensational news value in it that is in the destruction of cities, the desolation of a whole country in the war zone.

We are here forced back upon an elementary principle of all warfare, namely, that the aggressive belligerent must attain his main objective or else he suffers a real defeat, however many minor successes fall in his way.

ENGLAND'S CONTROL OF THE RAILROADS
-IS MOST COMPLETE

All British Lines Operating Under Government Control in a Most Satisfactory Manner.

London, Jan. 5.—One of the most quickly and successfully accomplished tasks of the war in England was the nationalization of the railways of the kingdom. At last after more than a year of application to detail, the chairman of the executive committee in charge of the roads reports that the scheme "is working as smoothly as if the lines no longer had their own individuality."

This executive committee, which sits continuously "nowhere in London," is the general staff of the railway branch of the British government. On behalf of the government, it has absolute control of railways, rolling stock, locomotives, and staffs, including every mile of steam road in Great Britain.

The committee is the strongest body of railway experts ever brought together. It includes the managers of nearly all of the great railroads, together with a host of specialists and technical experts specially drafted for the purpose, under the chairmanship of Sir H. A. Walker, head of the London and Southwestern lines.

"Our policy of control," writes a member of the committee, "has been not to supplant the normal management of the roads, but to coordinate the whole of the railways of the country through several groups into a single system available instantly for all emergencies. The general rights of the public are protected by various special acts of parliament. The general staff controlling this complex fabric of railways is so divided that it is in session twenty-four hours of every day of the week. In an instant, by a single order from this nerve center, we could turn every locomotive and car in Great Britain out of private use to respond to emergency demands of the war office."

"As I have said, the lines are grouped, mainly along sectional lines, and to coordinate with the immediate requirements of army and navy transport. Each section is in charge of officials selected from the staffs of the roads represented in the group, with suitable representation. The demands of the war office have fallen differently from different lines, in some cases ordinary traffic has

MARY PICKFORD IN MADAME BUTTERFLY

Screen Adaptation of This Opera Scores a Triumph for Its Artistic Production.

Mary Pickford is so essentially a Mary Pickford of curls and pranks that she was unfamiliar to many in her role of Cho Cho San in the tragic little story of love misplaced, "Madame Butterfly," which was shown in picture play at the Apollo last night. And yet she was pleasing as she always is.

The photo story runs along with more lucidity than the opera gives, and through the greater scope of the screen accomplishes more picturesque ly than the stage limitations allow. The picture takes rather generous liberties with the theme, but they are on the side of the picturesque, and they add greatly to the complete effect. The tragedy of the heroine is given poetic beauty by the discarding of the knife-behind-the-screen method for a sinking into a shimmering death.

Miss Myrtle Jersey, prima donna soprano, who sings the role of "Adele" in the gorgeous musical production of the same name, which will be seen at Myers' Theatre Sunday, matinee and night, January 9th.

Besides Miss Pickford there is one player who does not have his name on the program. And yet he is a star of first magnitude. When he is on the other players take to playing second fiddle. He is the butterfly lady and is the liveliest and most observant youngster that the camera has ever registered so extensively. He adds unique interest to the picture for nearly half its length, behaving as he does with the poise of a professional.

The production itself was guided with an artistic hand and to the majority it was much more satisfying than the opera.

NEW MACHINE GIVES STEADY, CLEAR LIGHT

Majestic Theatre Makes Big Improvement for the Projection of Pictures.

The Majestic theatre put into operation last night for the first time one of the new direct current motor generators by means of which all the shadows of the screen are thrown away with a steady, clear light. The light is diffused even for the darkest pictures. It is a decided innovation for the motion picture theatres of this city, or for any other city for that matter, as it is a new development of the General Electric company for the motion picture business.

This motor generator takes its power from the light line giving a high speed motor which in turn drives a direct current generator. The current is as the name implies, therefore continual or direct current, and it is much better for picture projection. This generator also gives a proper voltage and amperage for picture projection purposes and when used in conjunction with a new type of machine, produces pictures as near flickerless as science has been able to produce.

"Adele," a musical play that achieved great popularity during its long run at the Longacre theatre in New York and which is credited with being one of the most pleasing entertainments of its class shown in recent seasons, will be presented at the Myers theatre Sunday, Jan. 9, matinee and evening, by a company which has been receiving high critical praise during its present season's tour.

In the story of the play, Adele is a dainty young miss who is in love with the son of her father's business rival. On account of parental objec-

"Destiny, or The Soul of a Woman," is a five act allegorical story of vital human interest from the original manuscript by Anthony J. Kelly, and was produced in pictorial form by the A. Rolfe company, under the direction of Edwin Carewe. The treatment of the theme is unusual and the picture is full of photographic effects that are very striking. Miss Stevens is supported by a superb cast of recognized stage and screen artists, headed by George LeGuere.

CHINESE STUDENTS AT

OVER CHINESE FLAG

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 6.—Beginning with the date China became a republic, the revolutionist Chinese students at Pennsylvania university began a fight to have the silken yellow dragon emblem of the Manchurian monarchy removed from the wall of Houston hall, where it had hung for many years. At last the revolutionists won and the emblem came down to give place to the flag of the republic of China. Within a few hours thereafter came the news that China was again a monarchy. Now the Manchus want the dragon reinstated.

Serbian School Teacher Held Important Pass With His Band

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Ceyheli, Serbia, Jan. 6.—One of the most picturesque figures of the European war is the Serbian "komitadj" or guerilla Ivan Stokovich, known to fame as "Babounsky." The name is drawn from the famous Babouna Pass, where recently the Serbs so long held the invading Bulgarians at bay. Ivan Stokovich comes from that part of Serbia and is therefore known to his followers and to the Serbian population at large by a nickname indicating the fact.

A slight man, tall, with honest gray-blue eyes and the pale features of a student, he impresses the stranger with anything but the terror which his name inspires. Nor do his looks belie his real profession. For the remarkable "Babounsky" was a school teacher until fired by an arch-patriotism, he gave up his studies to gather about him a band of intrepid spirits in the fight for the release of the Turkish part of Serbia from the Ottoman yoke.

When they have taken their own risks of capture and instant execution, their refuge is in the Serbian mountains, and they have been willing to trust their security to their own astuteness and the impracticability of their numerous hiding places.

During the brief periods separating the first Balkan war from the second and the second Balkan war from the present European struggle, the internal administration of Serbia was in such a state of disorder that it seemed to "Babounsky" better to retain his band under arms and to assist in the administration of a rough and ready justice than to send his followers to their own firesides. In this capacity even in the short intervals of peace he kept his name as a kind of modern Robin Hood—the friend of the weak and the terror of the evil doer.

Especially since the complete breakdown of the Serbian administration following the flight of the government to Soufari, has "Babounsky" become a person of prime importance in Serbia. Before the advancing German and Bulgarian armies, town after town was evacuated. Sometimes the inhabitants were able to take a few of their belongings with them; more often they were forced to leave with the clothes they wore as their only possessions. But especially in the southern part of Serbia, where the greater part of the inhabitants are really of Turkish or Bulgarian extraction, only the Serbs fled and the Turks and the Bulgarians remained. While waiting for the arrival of the armies of their compatriots, they were not averse to going through the deserted Serbian dwellings and acquiring a few useful articles.

"Babounsky" did not approve of this. Naturally the deserted dwellings and all in them would fall into the hands of the conquerors. That was all right—the chance of war. But that former neighbors should do the looting was not in "Babounsky's" code. And those who tried it were dealt with in a most summary manner.

Whenever among the Bulgarians was suspected of giving information to the advancing Bulgarian armies also received short shrift. A story is told of the first Balkan war when a certain Serbian known as "Kechko" was suspected of treason to the Serbian cause. "Babounsky's" band appeared upon the scene one night and "Kechko" and four others were arrested, tried in secret, by the band at midnight and sentenced to be sent to Saloniki—that is, taken to the banks of the Vardar river, stabbed and thrown in their bodies to drift down with the current to Saloniki. All five were lined up on the bank. "Babounsky" gave the signal for the fatal blows to be struck. But unfortunately "Kechko's" executioner, a lawyer from Belgrade, had never killed a man before and his hand slipped. The five bodies were thrust into the Vardar, but "Kechko" was still alive.

BRITISH COLLEGES HARDLY OPERATING

Many of Educational Institutions Near Closing Point—Foreign and Colonial Students Attending.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Cambridge, England, Jan. 6.—Cambridge has practically ceased to be a domestic institution, and its academic life is sustained entirely by foreign and colonial students. This resemblance to a foreign university, planted in the classic confines of the ancient seat of learning, is intensified by the presence of the faculty and some of the student body of Louvain.

With the exception of the medical school, none of the colleges has more than a handful of British students. Perhaps the greatest sufferer from the war has been Corpus Christi college, which does not admit men of colored races to its rolls. This college has seven undergraduates in residence and since most of its sons are either with the military forces or doing government work of some sort, the great hall is closed and their instructions are given in the quarters.

Each college has a great hall of baronial appearance and capacity where its members dine in state, the sons at tables on a dais while below the main floor the undergraduates gather about long tables. Most of these halls, formerly centers of traditional English good cheer, are now places of gloom where by dim candle light a handful of British students, Zeppelin perils, a few of the elderly faculty members gather with their alien and crippled student body in a pathetic effort to keep alive a glorious tradition.

WILL MAKE CHANGES TO LESSEN HAZARDS IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

School Board Will Remodel Lincoln Building at Once to Eliminate Fire Dangers—Other Alterations Planned.

Already the school board has taken action to provide better conditions at several of the public school buildings, acting upon the first report filed by Fire Chief H. C. Klein and the second report recently handed to the board by S. J. Williams, member of the state industrial commission. Conditions at the Lincoln school will be improved, immediately, one of the rooms of the building having been removed to the first floor.

In the most recent report of S. J. Williams, which was taken up by the board of education in its meeting of Jan. 4, Mr. Blair, showed practically the same findings as were submitted in Chief Klein's report. At their last meeting W. H. Blair, architect, read the report of S. J. Williams and gave approximate estimates of the cost to make the repairs and improvements suggested. The report in general, dealt alone with defects that could be remedied without any great expenditure of money. The school board may find it necessary to petition the city council for an added appropriation to make the more radical changes to eliminate the numerous fire hazards. The matter was left in the hands of the building committee, of which Francis Grant is chairman.

RUSSIA HAS DESIRE TO OBTAIN PORTION OF RAILROAD LAND

Seek to Control Northern Strip of Manchuria Where Trans-Siberian Railroad Runs.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Harbin, Manchuria, Jan. 6.—Russia's desire to control that portion of northern Manchuria through which the Trans-Siberian railway runs is uppermost in the minds of all Russians in this section, and they are constantly expressing the hope that the European war will result in such a rearrangement in the affairs of the Far East that Russia may gain actual possession of the territory through which the railway passes.

Although Harbin has an immense Chinese population, it is almost a Russian city in its architecture and in the manners and customs of its people as well as in the very heart of Russia. The other cities and towns along the Trans-Siberian line in Manchuria are practically Russian in everything but name. The Russian assumption of authority in fact is such that the Chinese prisoners who may have been taken from Siberia are frequently sent to Chinese territory by Russian soldiers. The Russians have taken the escaped German prisoners away from Chinese soldiers who were protecting them in Chinese territory. This has caused forthright complaints from Germans in Manchuria.

Conditions in Mongolia, south of the Trans-Siberian railway, are much the same as in that part of Manchuria through which the railway actually passes. Russians have practically all the trade in Mongolia, especially in the northern part, and it is in effect a Russian dependency rather than a Chinese territory.

The Kutuk, the head of the Buddhist religion in Mongolia, who is a resident in Urumchi and who is the most powerful leader in Central Asia, negotiated an agreement last June by which China's nominal control of Outer Mongolia was to be recognized, but he has refused to carry out terms of the agreement. Although Russia, as well as China, was a party to the agreement, it is charged by some Chinese officials that the Kutuk has been influenced in some way by Russians who desired to create friction between the Mongolian people, themselves, have frequently endeavored to persuade the Chinese to recognize them as an independent state and defend them against China and Japan. Chinese officials are endeavoring to persuade the Kutuk to carry out this agreement, but it is reported that the Chinese diplomat who is now conducting the negotiations, is held practically a prisoner by Buddhist leaders.

Outer Mongolia is now also in a state of ferment. Bandit companies are operating all along the Chinese border, and apparently have recently gained much strength. With an internal struggle on hand, the Chinese are in a position to do little more than defend themselves against the Japanese. Japanese arms and ammunition have reached the bandits in large quantities. Representations concerning this traffic have been made to the Japanese government, but it is reported that Japan has no control of private shipments of arms.

Manchuria has made very slow progress in an agricultural and industrial sense, but it is less prosperous than portions of Siberia where the Russians have colonized. The Chinese farm with little idea of developing the country permanently. Manchuria, however, offers far better opportunities to the Russians than Siberia as the climate is more favorable and markets are better. It is a comparatively short haul from any point of Manchuria to the water.

PLANS PRESENTED TO COUNCIL ON CREEK QUESTION

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Edgerton, Jan. 6.—W. G. Kirchoff of Madison, at the request of the common council, has made and submitted a survey of Saunders Creek and adjacent territory where it passes through the city. The purpose of the survey was to determine the amount of land that might be affected by floods on this creek, and the probable cost of dredging an adequate channel, so as to protect the land from further damage. The report shows that there are 60.92 acres within the city which are directly affected by the overflow of water from the creek and that the cost of such a ditch adequate to insure further loss from floods would cost $8,073.20. In order to give the property-owners some idea as to the cost and as to what their total assessment would be, the letter says that the average width of the area between the high water marks is about 300 feet, or 150 feet on each side of the creek. The frontage assessment per foot would be 27 cents and the cost of 100 feet facing the creek the assessment would be $27. The area assessment would be $11.12, making a total of $38.12 for the frontage.

On the creek where the average width benefited was 300 feet. At a meeting of some of the property-holders who have property along the creek, which was held last evening at the office of Attorney Blanchard, it was decided that something should be done in regard to this matter. As there was only a portion of the property-holders present to discuss the matter it was decided to hold a meeting next Wednesday evening, January 12th, in the city council chambers and to have Mr. Kirchoff of Madison present and at that time some definite plan will be adopted and the work will be rushed along. It is earnestly hoped that all the citizens who are interested in the drainage proposition, so that the committees who are appointed can act for the best interests of everyone.

Mrs. J. A. Thompson and Mrs. C. E. Shannon pleasantly entertained a company of lady friends at the home of the latter yesterday afternoon. There were two guests of honor, Mrs. Johnson, a sister of Mrs. F. W. Coon, who is here from California, and Mrs. Frank McIntosh of Winona. Cards constituted the entertainment and Mrs. A. S. Plagg won high honors. Light refreshments were also served.

The missionary society of the Congregational church, which was to have met tomorrow, has been postponed for one week and will be held at the home of Mrs. E. E. Peters Jan. 14th. The Shauler schools of Cincinnati, Ohio, will be discussed and a very interesting afternoon is anticipated.

Miss Wynna Hurd returned to Beloit yesterday to resume her duties at Beloit college.

George Doty was a business caller to Janesville yesterday, attending committee meeting No. 9 of the county board.

Miss Mona Nichols returned to Princeton yesterday to resume her duties as teacher in the public schools at that place.

W. F. Shafley of Milwaukee has been a business caller in the city the past few days.

W. F. Mabbett transacted business at Milwaukee yesterday.

FEW MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED IN GREEN COUNTY

Monroe, Wis., Jan. 6.—The little love god was unable to show a business gain in the number of marriage licenses issued last year, there being but 155 licenses issued in Green county the past twelve months, according to the records of County Clerk J. W. Stewart. This is a falling off of seven over 1914, the first year of the eugenic law was in effect, and of forty-five over 1912, the year previous to the enactment of the eugenic marriage law. It is up to the Leap Year girls to prove that Cupid is not deserting Green county.

Married Life on $80 a Month

By MRS. E. L. LEONARD

"Julia," said Fred Crane, "I must see you; must speak with you a moment, come for a walk with me along the river bank." Julia Osgood hesitated. "I'll wait while you get your hat," he continued. They walked in silence to the stream and sat down under a great elm on a bench facing the river.

"Julia, I have broken off all relations with my mother-in-law," she said. "I have left home." He looked steadily at her as she said this. "Oh, why?" she asked. "I thought I could save you from that sorrow," he said. "You say that it has come now that I am alone, will you not marry me?" I am lonely, Julia. I will care to offer you, but I can make a comfortable living, and could you not be happy on a small income?"

Julia looked up at his eager face and laughed. "Did you think it was the money? Oh, Fred, you surely did not think that, did you?" "I did not know what to think, dear. I went up to Newport full of trouble because my position was entirely changed from what it was when you accepted me for your husband; and as soon as you knew about it, mother's objection, you were changed, you were so cold and distant I could not help thinking the loss of the money had something to do with it." Julia's eyes slowly filled with tears as she stated.

"How could you think such a thing? I thought you knew me."

"How could you think that my mother's objections would alter my plan in the least?" he interrupted. "You spoke of postponing the wedding yourself. I thought perhaps it was done as a hint that you wanted your freedom."

"And you claimed to know me. Could you want to marry a man who would have such a craven spirit?" asked Fred.

"You notice I was not very anxious about it. I broke the engagement, laughed Julia. 'I can see that it was all a morbid fear that you would give up so much that you would come something to feel that your wife had lost you too much; that the sacrifice had been too great.'"

"As if any sacrifice could be too great," he smiled into her eyes. "What will Mr. Jaynes say at a second resignation?"

"What a funny plan. Well, clothes mean less to me than some other things," he said. "I will try and be ready. What will Mr. Jaynes say at a second resignation?"

"I imagine he is a man that will get the humor of the situation," she seemed to be taking a very cheerful view of life himself. "We must tell the Sumners right away. They will be so glad. Molly's grief over the broken engagement was very genuine."

"Yes, they will be glad, both of them. They are true friends," Fred Crane spoke with conviction. They walked off down the river bank and hope grew in Molly's breast with every minute that passed. For she had watched them go away from behind a window blind. When she twilight she saw John a convulsive hug, exclaiming:

"It is all right. Oh, I am so glad. How happy Mrs. Morton will be, too."

Household Hints

THE SUNDAY DINNER.
Oysters on the Half-Shell, Horse-radish Sauce, Potatoes, Escaloped Tomatoes, Buttered Beets, Lettuce Hearts, French Dressing, Lemon Meringue Pie, Coffee.

THE TABLE.
Pressed Pig's Feet—Cook twelve pigs' feet very tender. Take bones out carefully while the meat is warm. Put meat through sausage grinder. Roll 1½ pounds crackers very fine. Salt and pepper to taste (not too much salt as crackers are salty). Put meat in a small dish pan, add cracked crumbs, mix with the hands, pack in small crocks or flat dish. Slice. Bake for lunch.

Nice Stuffed Onions.—Select large onions of uniform size. Peel, cover with boiling salted water and simmer ten minutes. Drain, scoop out center of each onion and fill cavity with cold minced meat of any kind, moistened with beaten eggs and a little melted butter, and seasoned highly with salt and pepper. Place closely together in baking dish and bake in moderate oven half an hour. Serve with cream sauce.

Potato-Nut Fricassee.—Five medium potatoes mashed hot. Add one tablespoon butter, one teaspoon salt, two cups sugar, three eggs, one cup walnut meats. Sift five teaspoons baking powder into enough flour to roll out. This makes about sixty fricassees.

Cherry Cream Pie.—One cup milk boiling hot; add a little soda, one cup canned sour cherries, one cup sugar, yolks of two eggs, two tablespoons flour. Make into a custard. Have a thorough roll in up and throw it away. Beat whites of the two eggs, add to top and brown. If a pinch of baking powder is added while beating eggs, the frosting will be very light. After beating very stiff, then beat again.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

If soup is required the day it is cooked, the grease can be easily and entirely removed in this way: When soup is nearly cooked, set kettle in dish water and add three or four cups of cold water into soup. The grease will at once rise to the top and can be skimmed off with a large spoon.

A piece of paper (the kind you get the meat wrapped in from the butcher) is a handy thing to roll pies and cookies on. Use it the same as the baking board. When you get through roll it up and throw it away. It works splendidly and there is no board to clean when you get through baking.

Flannel Pillow Slips.—Those who are obliged to sleep in cold rooms will find these very comfortable. Make them of white outing flannel, as they may be easily laundered, as they may be boiled and hung out to freeze without injury. Especially nice for old people and children.

VEGETABLE TIME TABLE.

After preparing vegetables, place in cold water some time before using. Always let water boil before putting them to cook and continue to boil until done.

Turnips should be peeled and boiled from forty minutes to one hour. Beets take from one to two hours to boil.

Spinach takes twenty minutes. Parsnips from twenty to forty minutes.

String beans require about one and one-half hours.

Green peas take twenty minutes, with very little water.

Asparagus, remove as peas; serve on toast with cream gravy.

Cabbage takes from one to two hours, and plenty of water; salt while boiling.

Shell beans take an hour to boil.

Green corn, twenty to thirty minutes.

Onions are best boiled in two or three waters, adding milk the best time.

Winter squash should be cut into small pieces and boiled twenty to forty minutes in small quantity of water.

SIDE TALKS

RUTH CAMERON

FROM STYLES TO TACT.

There is a young girl who passes my window every morning on her way to work, who always has a delightfully chic appearance. She wears very simple clothes, but they have an air. She kindly walks down High Avenue and not look downy, which to my mind is the supreme test.

You may be thinking that her clothes, though simple, are probably loved. You are wrong. I thought so, too, until I found that she was a stenographer with comparatively little money to spend on herself. I've studied her since then and I've come to the conclusion that it is simply because she has the touch.

What "The Touch" Is.
What do mean by the touch? Well, for instance, (one can often define a thing better by instances) when other girls were bemoaning the fact that their furs opened in the front and hence looked hopelessly old-fashioned, or even before they had sensed that fact, this girl had furnished up her old fur by cutting off the worn edges and twisted it around to open at the proper angle under her left ear.

Again her veil is always hung at just the right angle, and I defy anyone to tell anything that gives more style to a costume than a veil draped at the very latest angle.

BEAUTIFUL EXPOSITION GROUNDS ARE VICTIM OF THE RUTHLESS WRECKERS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
San Francisco, Jan. 6.—The wreckers' ruthless hands are upon the Exposition. Soon its beauties will be a heap of plaster, timbers and memories.

Today a grunting engine wheezed its way through the grounds where once joyful throngs congregated. It backed its string of freight cars into the exhibits and dragged out the last of the exhibits and furnishings. It poured its smoke over the Tower of Jewels and upon beautiful, snowy statues. Throughout the grounds the doleful sound of hammers and picks of rippling lumber and rattling plaster were heard. Sharp bargainers directed the destruction of their prizes, the state buildings and other edifices, costing thousands to build, but sold for a trifle.

A lone Barker tried to sell post-exposition visitors souvenir coins. A wheel chair bearing a couple of old ladies creaked through what is left of the once gem city.

High over the wondrously beautiful Court of the Universe and Court of Abundance, circled lazy circles from off the bay. Around the buildings a flock of frightened doves rose as now and then the tread of a visitor started their calm. Empty fountains rustled. The noise of some of them, still stood. But they showed signs of decrepitude; the plaster walls were chipped; the brilliant banners dropped and faded in the breeze.

Sidewalks were littered with rubbish. Amid the ruins in the gardens blossomed a few geraniums. The other flowers were dead. All about was an air of desolation. A few grimy workmen replaced the thousands of sightseers who for months filled the grounds.

The romance of moonlight nights about the bay fragrant with soft breezes, touched with orange blossoms, was replaced by the grim reality of decay, ruin, loneliness. A chill wind blew from the hills; clouds filled the sky with gloom.

On the Joy Zone—that noisy, rollicking Zone—desolation lay deep. Stella—wondrously beautiful Stella—was gone. Just a ragged sign marked the erstwhile abiding place of the giant dummy figures outside of Toyland reared their heads like lonesome monsters wondering where their crowds had vanished to. The house of The Girl in Blue was boarded up. The Pool of the Diving Girls is in ruins. Strange silence rests upon the once clattering counters. It is indeed, a forsaken city.

COAL OPERATORS HOLD CONFERENCE IN CHICAGO

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Chicago, Jan. 6.—Coal operators and United Mine Workers' officials from four states, Illinois, Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Indiana met informally in Chicago today with the hope of reorganizing the operators of these four states into a contractual relationship. John White, president of the United Mine Workers, issued the call for the meeting.

CALLS MOUNTAINS POOR COMPANIONS

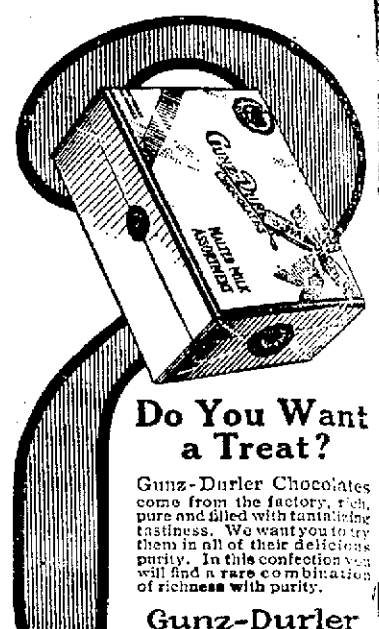

Miss Minnie E. Finnegan.

Miss Minnie E. Finnegan, once described by Prince Henry of Prussia as America's "most strikingly interesting girl," has returned to civilization after three years spent as a hermitess in the solitudes of the Sierras. She had decided to spend the remainder of her life alone in the mountains, but was compelled to return to civilization to keep her sanity.

I wish the habit of observation could be taught in our schools. If it could be introduced not only as a spare mind exercise but as a part of the work in every course, I think our children would be the gainers.

Heart and Home Problems

Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of The Gazette

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two chums sixteen years of age and would like to have some advice about a couple of things.

(1) We each have a boy friend and a little while ago they got angry with us about a trifle and now will not speak to us. We love these boys very much. What should we do to win them back?

(2) Should the boy or girl speak first when they meet on the street?

(3) When we wish to introduce these boys in company what should we say?

(4) The boys are very childish to act so and their affections are not worth winning. Is it then go?

should speak first, but not unless the boy shows by the expression his face that he would like to have her.

(5) The boy should be presented to the girl and the younger man to the older one. For instance, Miss Brown, I would like to have you meet Mr. Miller, or Mr. Ellison, I would like to have you meet Mr. Robert Smith.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl eighteen years old and have been going with a young man about my age. We have been keeping steady company for about three months and he always treated me fine, but a few days ago we had a little trouble and we quit. He always led me to think he thought a great deal of me and I told others he did. Do you think we shall ever go together again?

(2) We had planned a trip, but now that this has happened would you mention it to him, as he wants to go very badly?

(3) Would it be all right for me to ask him to come over? ZDB.

(4) I have no idea whether you will go together again. You should go together again. You should go together again.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have a friend at a distance and we have been corresponding for several years. I am afraid I keep up the correspondence she will misunderstand my intentions and think I care more for her than I do. Can I honorably keep on writing to her or shall I stop?

You alone know what your letters and hers are leading to. If she has you to think she cares for you there is no reason why you should stop. You should be very careful not to give an impression you do not mean.

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

ONE GOOD THING ABOUT BREWERIES.

The old, chronic varicose or leg ulcer which is covered with a dry, resistant, indurated slough is one of the most discouraging conditions to treat. Any one who suffers with such an ulcer will do well to consider what the brewery has to offer in the way of treatment.

The suggestion, so far as we are aware, was originally made by the late Dr. Roswell Park, the distinguished surgeon, author and teacher of Buffalo, N. Y. We have found it very valuable, and only our inherent hatred for breweries and all their works has prevented us from passing this information on to our readers. Now, however, the poor brewer is having a pretty hard time keeping their heads above water; furthermore, they have been remarkably courteous and accommodating in furnishing quantities of their product for our patients, so we must suppress our racial antipathy and speak in such about an excellent remedy—brewer's yeast.

Any old sore that is covered with a dirty, gangrenous or resistant slough, or any ulcer which refuses to assume the bright red, granular, velvety appearance of a healing wound (granulating surface) may be treated with brewer's yeast to good advantage. The yeast is obtained fresh every two or three days from the brewery in a wide-mouthed jar or pill—a quart or so at a time—and kept in the refrigerator. If the brewer's real product tastes and acts as well as this by-product smells, we do not blame the few million people who consume the former.

Apply the semi-fluid yeast on sterile gauze folded in several thicknesses. First bathe the ulcer thoroughly in sterile water. Over the gauze apply a layer of rubber dam.

such as dentists use, or a square of oiled silk, or a piece of oiled or waxed paper, to prevent too rapid drying of the yeast. Then a little cotton for padding, and finally a snug bandage, preferably an elastic, an ideal, or a woolen flannel bandage made from flannel cut on the bias.

The yeast smarts a little at first. But it will clean up the ulcer and institute healthy healing. It must be changed about every eight hours. At each re-dressing bathe the ulcer gently with warm boiled water, but avoid touching it with anything—just pour the water over it to remove all the old yeast and any secretions from the surface.

The yeast dressings may be kept up for a week, more or less, until the ulcer becomes the nutrition of the tissues is better when the patient is off the feet. A week in bed is better than a pound of salve for any varicose ulcer.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

The Dandruff Remedy Par Excellence.

I am sure it would gratify many readers other than myself if you would suggest a good application for dandruff.

Answer—We have a letter if you will supply postage. But here is a salve which usually does great good if massaged in systematically, by parting the hair here and there and applying the salve to the scalp only. Powdered sulphur, a dram; salicylic acid, half dram; ointment of rose water, one ounce.

THE "BLACK HOWLER."

Queer South American Monkey That Roars Like a Lion.

While there is little likelihood of any species (of fauna) living within the jungle becoming extinct, it would require but little effort to make the Gatun lake region a wonderful outdoor zoological garden that would prove almost as interesting to visitors as the game refuges along the government railroad in British East Africa.

While breakfasting on the houseboat a strange, uncouth sound came from the hills to the west, rising and falling in a torrent of guttural notes. It was the first greeting of the "black howler," the largest of the South American monkeys, whose uproarious conduct, whether in tribal conversation, in protestation against man or the weather, was a source of astonishment thereafter.

My friend Puertes, the bird artist and naturalist, whose mimicry of bird notes is quite equal to the fidelity of his brush, declares that the noise of the "howler" is by far the most striking sound in the American tropics, being "a deep, throaty, bass roar, with something of the quality of grunting pigs or of the barking bellow of a bull, alligator or an ostrich. The noise was as loud as the full throated roaring of lions, and its marvelous carrying power was frequently attested when we heard it from the far side of some great Andean valley."

It is a popular belief on the isthmus that the "black howler" is an infallible weather prophet, and especially so in predicting a shower. So far as we could discover, it was only when the clouds blackened overhead and the first preliminary drops began to fall that this prognosticator considered it safe to commit himself in the forecast—George Shiras 3d in National Geographic Magazine.

"Abide With Me." The famous hymn, "Abide With Me, Fast Falls the Eventide," was written by Henry Francis Lyte, a minister of the church of England, born at Kelso, Ireland, in 1796. He wrote it when suffering from an incurable disease which he knew must soon end his life.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Gazette, January 6, 1876. The prospects for the enlargement of the cotton factory will soon take place. The necessary capital will undoubtedly be raised without much difficulty. The river is about two feet higher today than for the corresponding time last year. Seventeen degrees colder than it was at this time yesterday. A good solid winter day.

Services are being held in several of the churches this evening, but on tomorrow evening there will be a union service in the Congregational church when a short sermon will be preached by Rev. Stone Richardson of the Court street Methodist church. Cincinnati, Jan. 6, 1876.—Oliver J. More, who accidentally shot and killed a man named Hesse some days ago, committed suicide at his residence here on Freeman street this morning by taking poison.
